

We are going to be launching two new additions to our website

May 18, 2009

We are going to be launching two new additions to our website in the coming months.

The first is for properties, land and apartments that have either reduced the price or that are now completed or had further renovation since we first took the photographs currently being viewed on the site.

The second area that we are planning to expand is our property rental section and so we can arrange accommodation for existing and potential clients in the town's or in the villages.
